THE NEWS.
The late arrival of dispatches makes it impossible to give much of a summary of the news, important as it is. The European news is of the highest interest. The Schleswig Holstein matter has at length come to the issue of arms, and we now look for stirring events from over the water.

Our home news is varied, and we refer readers to our unusually full report.

Substitute Brokers—Recruiting—Bounty.

We are glad to observe that our Legislature is trying to prevent some of the shameful abuses that are being practiced by unprincipled scoundrels not only upon the Government itself, but upon the soldiers and the towns that are sustaining every nerve to fill their quota under the last call of the President for troops. The Government desires to recruit good healthy men who are capable of being converted into brave and efficient soldiers, and who can serve their country successfully upon the weary march, or upon the hotly contested field of battle. The patriotic people of the cities, towns and villages are both anxious and willing to furnish just such men as are wanted, and to that end they have taxed themselves with a liberality that has no parallel in the history of self-imposed burdens for the public support. And sound, healthy, resolute men—just such men as the Government wants, and just such men as the people would be glad to send, are abundant, but do not go. Now look at the reason:

The first stumbling block that we tumble over, is the substitute broker. His business is to furnish men to fill quotas for the different towns. He sells men if he does not buy them, and like every other salesman, must have his profits. If he can get a worthless old man to color his hair and whiskers in such a manner as to impose upon the examining surgeon, he lets him muster into the service, draws the large Government bounty, has him credited to a certain town that is paying a large local bounty, and pockets most of the money himself. Or, if he can inveigle into his net some truant schoolboy whose incipient beard marks that precocious era in his life which comes to every youth when an oath and a tobacco quid are the discriminating marks of manhood and greatness, he musters him in before his mother knows he is out, and he is hurried off to some distant Southern camp to repent at his leisure, and to die in the hospital whenever it is most convenient to bury him. Thus the Government pays its enormous bounty for the volunteer; the towns, cities, and villages pay their liberal local bounties to escape the draft, and who is benefited thereby? Not the Government, for it wants strong and vigorous men who have some service in them, and who can stand the wear and tear of camp life. Not the towns to which such men are credited, because the army is not filled up by this miserable substitute; the rebellion is not to be crushed by sick men or overgrown and tender boys, and another draft is inevitable. Go into Camp Randall to-day and you can pick out scores of what are called and paid for as soldiers, that will wait on the first day's march under a Southern sun, and who must seek refuge in some friendly hospital before they have been a month in the service.

But the substitute broker is not at all affected by this grievous loss to individuals, to the government, and to the towns. His pockets grow plumper with his ill-gotten gains and his bank account is on the right side of the ledger. He is the merciless Nero who fiddles on a golden string while Rome burns. Nor is this all. He tells the really capable man who volunteers, that the bonds of the town to which he has been credited, are next to worthless, or that they will not be paid in a long time, in order that he may buy them up at a ruinous discount.

It is high time that some legal remedies were provided against these cruel outrages, and we are glad to see our legislators at Madison, trying to provide for the punishment of these wholesale swindlers.

"Poor Unhappy Vallandigham."
The case of "poor and unhappy Vallandigham" was up in the Supreme Court of the United States a few days since. The petitioner asked that the writ of habeas corpus be directed to the Judge-Advocate-General for a revision of the proceedings of the Military Commission which tried him, the jurisdiction of which was denied as extending to the case of a civilian, the object being to have the sentence annulled on the ground of illegality.

Judge-Advocate-General Holt, had responded in a written argument that the Court might with as much propriety be called upon to restrain by injunctions the proceedings of Congress, as to revise by certiorari and reverse the proceedings of the military authority in time of war, in the punishment of all military offenses according to the usage of civilized nations and the power given by the Constitution and laws of the United States for the common defense and public safety.

Judge Wayne delivered the opinion of the Court, refusing the writ, on the ground that, even if the arrest, trial, and punishment of Vallandigham were illegal, there was still no authority in the Court to grant relief in this mode, and that there is no law by which any appeal, or proceedings in the nature of an appeal from a military commission in the Supreme Court can be taken.

And so the idol of the copperheads of Wisconsin must still continue to "wail" one wail over the border.

STATE NEWS.

The Madison Journal gives an account of the celebration of the golden wedding of Col. Adin Burdick, residing in Dane county, near Edgerton. The occasion seems to have been a happy one. The venerable couple are nearly eighty years of age. The Journal also says: "Several of our citizens are preparing for a trip to Idaho this spring, and among them are Mr. Warden, the saddler, and Mr. Ramsdale, the blacksmith. We also hear Mr. Frank Larkin mentioned, as likely to accompany them." The town of Bristol, in Kenosha county, has raised its quota for the new call. So writes a correspondent of the Telegraph.—The Delawarean Patriot says that village has voted a bounty of $150 for volunteers to fill the quota.—Hon. E. H. Galloway, of the Assembly, who has been confined to his room by an attack of congestion of lungs, is much better, and will doubtless be able to resume his seat in the Assembly next week.—The Green Bay Advocate says the three men arrested for selling liquor to Indians at Fort Howard, have been acquitted by Judge Miller, of the Milwaukee District Court.—The Door County Advocate says of the Sturgeon Bay Canal: "We understand that a company of capitalists is about being formed to put through this long talked of important enterprise. The projectors will soon appear before the Legislature asking for a Charter of Incorporation. The capital is stated at a quarter of a million of dollars, with power of increasing the same when needed to half a million."

Frightful Accident.

From the Toronto Globe, February 19.

One of the most frightful railway accidents that have occurred, occurred yesterday morning on the Grand Trunk Railway, resulting in the instant death of three persons, employees on the road. The following are the particulars of the affair: The Grand Trunk Railway, a short distance west of the Georgetown station, crosses over the river Credit by one of the largest bridges of the road. It is one of the biggest, if not the very highest—bridges on the road, it being, no less than one hundred and twenty-five feet from the surface of the river to the floor of the bridge. The river at this point is very shallow, being at this season of the year not more than two or three feet in depth, and almost completely frozen over. About 8 o'clock yesterday morning, as No. 15 freight train, from Sarnia, was approaching this bridge, it was notified by those on the train that an axle-tree of one of the rear cars was broken. The engine driver, on being notified of the fact, at once whistled "breaks down," but owing to the ice on the track, and the train being on the down grade, the train could not be stopped as quickly as under ordinary circumstances. At the time the defect in the axle-tree was discovered, the train was within about two hundred yards of the bridge and going at the ordinary rate of speed. The persons on the train did all in their power to stop it. All their efforts, however, were unavailing, and the train still kept moving, and a few moments entered on the bridge. The engine and the tender, and a number of the cars passed on safely, but just as the last two cars came upon the bridge, the coupling of the forward one broke. In these cars were the conductor of train and two brakemen. Immediately on the parting of the train the last two cars ran off the track, dashed through the side rail of the bridge, took an awful leap in the air, and fell, with a fearful crash, into the river beneath, a distance of one hundred and twenty-five feet. They were, of course, smashed to atoms, and the three unfortunate men were mangled in such a horrible manner as to be scarcely distinguishable as human beings. Their arms, bodies, heads, and legs were cut, smashed, and crushed into one sickening awful mass of creeping, jellied flesh and bone. The head of the unfortunate conductor could, at first, nowhere be found, but after searching awhile among the ruins, pieces of skull, face, and brain, all that now remained of it, were picked up and gathered together. There can be no doubt that the accident resulted from the axle-tree, as all that portion of the train before the broken car passed safely over the bridge. The bridge was not very much injured by the affair, only a few of the rails and the portion of the side rail through which the cars ran having been damaged.

A LONDON correspondent writes: "Great efforts are now making to stop the emigration from Ireland to the United States, so far, at least as its object is to strengthen the Southern armies. I mentioned the letter of John Mitchell to a leading paper in Dublin. The letter of his Holiness, the Pope, though but a pious expression of a wish for peace, suitable to the Head of the Church, also has its influence, as it seems a recognition of Mr. Davis' official position. And now we have an officer of the Confederate army in England, with letters to several Bishops, whose mission is to induce them to use their influence in favor, at least of non-intervention."

BOTH houses of the legislature adjourned yesterday until Monday evening next at half past seven o'clock. The reason for such adjournment is that to-day is Saturday and to-morrow is Sunday and the next day is Monday which is a holiday.

There was not a corporal's guard left, notwithstanding there was a horse trot on Third Lake yesterday afternoon.

Sunday liquor selling in Janesville will be handled without gloves on Sunday evening, at the Baptist church.

LOCAL MATTERS.

THE Rev. Robert W. Wolsely, having accepted the call to Christ Church, will enter upon his duties Sunday, 21st. Services at half past 10 A. M., and half past 2 P. M.

Religious Notice.—A course of Sunday evening sermons on modern phases of Infidelity will be preached at the Presbyterian Church, beginning to-morrow evening with Pantheism.

Common Council.—There was not a quorum present at the meeting of the Common Council last night, and the meeting was adjourned until next Friday evening. At that time it is expected that the Judiciary Committee will make a report in relation to the matters in dispute between the city and county.

WASHINGTON ENGINE CO. No. 2.—A special meeting of Washington Engine Co. No. 2, will be held in their Hall this evening and 7½ o'clock.

The committee of arrangement on Dancing are requested to be present.

M. H. CURTIS, WM. BOOTH, Foreman, Secretary.

WASHINGTON ENGINE COMPANY No. 3's Festival.—We trust our citizens will remember this festival, to come off on Washington's birth day anniversary. It's proceeds are to be devoted to a noble purpose—that of replenishing the library of the company. We predict a good time generally, and a substantial benefit for the Company.

Sword Presentation.—To the members of Co. "F" who were not present at the presentation yesterday, Lieutenant Hart wishes to tender his thanks for this token of regard, not only to them, but to the whole company, and hopes that the relations sustained between the company and himself may always be as happy as they are now.

Sword Presentation.—The Nashville Union, of February 20th, contains the details of the presentation of a sword by the members of his company to Captain Newton H. Kingman, of the 13th Wisconsin Regiment, formerly of this city. The presentation speech was made by Corporal Van de Bogert. The reply of Captain Kingman was appropriate and affecting.

A LECTURE.—The last number of the Monroe Sentinel thus alludes to a lecture by one of our citizens: "Those of our citizens who were present at the Congressional Church last Monday evening must have experienced a feeling of regret that Mr. Kinney's lecture was the last one to which they were to listen this season. We have no room to review it, but we believe all who listened to it will agree that even where the lecturer related incidents which were already familiar to the student of English history, he did not fail to clothe them in such a garb as fascinated his audience. He remained in town till this morning, and preached at the Congregational Church last evening."

THE ACCIDENT AT THE GAS WORKS.—As the accident at the Gas Works, which has deprived our citizens of the usual supply of light and subjected them to the inconvenience of a change to other means of lighting their dwellings or business places, is a matter of special importance to the consumers and of general interest to the city, we have made a visit to the works of the company and had an interview with Mr. Henly, the Superintendent, for the purpose of acquiring the information our readers may desire. The first intimation of anything unusual was given Thursday morning, when an investigation discovered a leak flowing into the outlet pipe from the gas holder which supplies the city. An attempt to empty this pipe disclosed the existence of a leak somewhere in the pipe which admitted the water as fast as it was pumped out. This pipe is situated inside the gas holder, and to discover the exact situation of the leak required the removal of the water from the large tank outside the building where the gas is manufactured, to a sufficient depth to find it. It was hoped the leak would be discovered at the upper joint; but this morning the water was pumped below this joint, which was found tight and in good order, and the probability now is the difficulty is at the lower joint, which is at the bottom of the holder, given which there is now nine feet of water. Arrangements have been made for pumping this large body of water out of the tank, in which the gas holder is suspended, and workmen are now engaged in the labor. The precise time which will be requisite for this work, repatching the pipe, and putting another supply of water into the tank, is uncertain. The accumulation of a large body of solid ice inside the holder, the consequence of the severe weather of the first of January, and the last three or four days, will add to the time and labor necessary to this operation, but it is hoped and expected that it may be finished in a week; but if a longer time should be used, consumers must put up with the inconvenience as best they may, and they will better appreciate the value of the dear and clear light to which they have been accustomed. The accident is one which no foresight or precaution could have guarded against, and the interest of company as well as the anxiety of the superintendent to resume operations for the benefit of the consumers, is a sure guarantee that the work will be prosecuted as fast as possible and the repairs completed at the earliest possible time.

FROM EUROPE.

SANDY Hook, N. Y., Feb. 19.—The news by the City of Manchester is highly important.

An engagement, lasting six hours, had taken place between the Danes and Germans, at Missunde. The Danish outposts were driven in by the Germans, but the Danes repulsed their assault on the place.

It is confirmed that the ship Maraban, destroyed by the Alabama, was formerly the American bark Texas Star.

The Prussians lost 100 men in their attack on Missunde. They used 74-pound guns.

LATEST VIA QUEENSTOWN.

LONDON, Feb. 4.—There has been no renewal of the attack on Missunde by the Germans. The Danish loss was from 150 to 200. The Prussian loss was from 250 to 300, and some accounts say was much greater.

The Austrians attacked Bestrove, one mile south of Schleswig, on the 2d inst. The Danes held their own. An attack on the whole Danish line from Missunde to Agol, is expected to take place to-day. It is asserted that England has offered to guarantee all that Austria and Prussia have demanded of Denmark.

The Alabama was on the watch for vessels, fifty miles south of Rangoon, on the 5th of January.

The Evening Herald has received the following special telegram:—

RENDREVEN, Feb. 3.—10½ A. M.—Yesterday the Germans were repulsed four times, and finally retreated.

The London Shipping Gazette says the war in Denmark has created a suspension of their operations with the Baltic.

PARIS, Feb. 3.—The Patrie of this evening publishes under reserve the news that the Italian Government had protested against fortifications being erected by Austria near Peschiera, in contravention of the treaty of 1859.

LATER.—The firing continues. Another attack is expected to-morrow.

The wounded are being brought in.

LONDON, Feb. 4.—The Times seems inclined to cast upon Parliament the task of deciding the policy of the Cabinet. It says the future course of British policy rests with the House of Commons. All that a neutral State may do will no doubt be sanctioned by Parliament and public opinion. The Times says the question whether the state of war on the part of Austria and Prussia, against Denmark now definitely existing, is such as to imperil the ships of those nations at present in the ports of this country if they should put to sea and meet with Danish cruisers, has been a subject of anxious discussion.

The London Times reiterates its arguments against Mr. Seward's claims against England for the Alabama's depredations. It questions whether Mr. Seward is in earnest, and refuses to suspect him of a design to seek a quarrel.

The Morning Herald asserts that the Government will do nothing for Denmark.

It is asserted that Napoleon is more resolved than ever to take no active part in the Danish question, leaving the difficulties to England.

It is stated that the Portuguese Government had sent a steam frigate from Lisbon at the urgent demand of the American minister to which rebel privateers at the Azores.

Marshal Wrangle, on the 21st of January, summoned the Danes to evacuate Schleswig forthwith. Gen. Deoneza refused, whereupon the Prussians passed the frontier, and shots were exchanged, without effect. The Danes retreated; after blowing up the Soreg bridge. The Prussians, on the 1st inst., advanced to Goltz and Finkendorf, establishing their headquarters at Goltz. The Danish ships at Bekendorf, after exchanging shots with the Prussians, sailed away.

The entire Austria-Prussian cavalry entered Schleswig through Rendsburg on the 1st, and large masses of troops were pressing northward.

Lord Russell stated that England had not given the slightest promise of assistance to Denmark.

In the House of Commons, Palmerston defended the policy of Lord Russell.

A majority of the British journals have a pacific tendency.

The London Morning Post continues threatening in tone, but believes the German powers profess to enter Schleswig not with the intention of dismembering Denmark but only to seize a material guarantee for the performance of engagements.

The Post says England is in honor bound to furnish material support to Denmark.

It is asserted that France and Russia would not join England. Napoleon had received the address of the corps Legislatif, and in reply dwelt on the necessity of maintaining a stable government.

Kiel, Feb. 3.—In the engagement near Missunde yesterday the Danes maintained a heavy cannonade from their forts against the storming parties of German infantry. The loss of the latter is estimated at 100 men, among whom are several superior officers. The Danes continue the cannonade to-day. The Prussians have brought heavy artillery to the front. Boats are ready to transport troops over the Schless.

Johnston has concentrated his forces at Dalton, and advanced his picket lines to Ringgold. He is also fearful of an attack.

The Mobile News says Polk has been shamefully out-generaled by Sherman, who had advanced beyond Meridian, and got between the Bishop and Montgomery.

FROM WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—Times' Special.—Gen. Meade came up to-day from the army. He was in consultation several hours with the Secretary of War and Gen. Halleck.

FROM FORT SMITH.

Fort Smith, Ark., Feb. 19.—The existing intelligence here reached here, that Gen. Sterling Price has obtained a 60 days' leave of absence from the Confederate Government to enable him to visit Texas and Mexico. The common talk and belief at headquarters and throughout the rebel army, is that he will never return to it. He left Camden about ten days ago with only a small escort and in citizens' dress.

The mail between here and St. Louis has been robbed four times within ten days. The mail party is now frequently attacked by the bushwhackers about Cross Hollows. The last trip they were all taken but one man.

RELIGIOUS MISCELLANY.

A COW TEACHING THEOLOGY.
The following ingenious story is told by Dr. Todd—the same who said, "There are three classes of people in the world—saints, sinners and the Beecher family." It is found in the Sunday School Times. It is originally intended for children, it is eminently fitted for many of a larger growth. Let them see how "a cow teaches theology."

Old Mr. Bunnell was a peculiar man. When a little child, he was peculiar. He didn't want to rock, or creep, or walk like other children. He seemed to prefer to creep sideways or backward, rather than forward. And when a boy, no play suited him, no play was exactly right. When other boys wanted to skate he wanted to slide. When they wanted to slide down hill, he wanted to run on the ice. When they learned to read in the usual way, he turned his book bottom upwards, and learned to read in that way. Not that he was cross or morose, but peculiar. He wanted everything done his own way. When he became a man, and rode bareback with a cow, he used the saddle, and milked his cows the right side, instead of the left, and used an axe harnessed with the old horse, why, people said, "Mr. Bunnell is a peculiar man," and let it all pass.

But there were places where he found it hard to travel with other people. Especially was this so on the Sabbath. He never could enjoy the singing in the church, because the chorister always got hold of the wrong tunes; and he could not enjoy the prayers, because they were too long or too short, too abstract or too common. They were always out of joint. If the heathen were prayed for, he thought the heathen at home might as well be remembered. If the nations were mentioned, he thought the Jews ought to be mentioned by name. In all cases, somebody was left out or put into the prayers that ought not to be. He didn't want to scold, or find fault," he said, but he did "love to have things done right." Poor man, he never had them done right!

But a greater trouble was the preaching. He professed like the minister, and did like him as well as he could like anybody. But there were awful mistakes in his preaching. Sometimes a most important point, which he thought was left out. Sometimes things were put in which nobody could understand. Sometimes things almost heretical were bronched. What could he do? He gave hints and pronounced queries to his minister, and his minister so gently and kindly passed them off, that it seemed like pouring water on a duck's back. At length, when patience seemed about to give out, and when he could stand it no longer, he went over to his neighbor, Deacon Wright, and poured his troubles into his ear. Now, Deacon Wright was a quiet man, said little, but thought more. When he did speak, it was always to the point. He knew all about Mr. Bunnell, had great patience with him, and a great regard for him. He used to say, "Mr. Bunnell loves to growl, but he never really likes."

The Deacon was just going to the barn to fodder his cattle, when Mr. Bunnell came up, and bid him, "Good morning—if I can call such a cold morning good!" "Now, Deacon, I've just come to you to say, 'I'm preaching on preaching.' I get no good. There is so much in it that I grow lean on it. I lose my time and pains." "Mr. Bunnell, come in here! There's my cow Thankful; she can teach you theology!"

"A cow teach theology! What do you mean?" "Now see. I have just thrown her a forkful of hay. Just watch her. There now! She has found a stick (you know, sticks will get in the hay); and she sees how she tosses it one side, and leaves it, and goes on to eat what is good. There again! She has found a burdock, and she throws it one side, and goes on eating. And there! She don't relish that bunch of daisies, and she leaves them, and goes on eating. Before morning she will clear the manger of all, save a few sticks and weeds, and she will give milk. There's milk in that hay, and she knows how to get it out, albeit there may be now an in a stick or weed which she leaves. But if she refused to eat, and spent the time in scolding about the fodder, she too, would "grow lean," and my milk would be dried up. Just so with our preaching. Let the old cow teach you. Get all the good you can out of it, and leave the rest. You will find a great deal of nourishment in it." Mr. Bunnell stood a moment, then turned away, saying, "Neighbor, that old cow is no fool, at any rate."

BADGER!

GOOD! BETTER! BEST!

THE

HERETOFORE KNOWN AS

AS MADE BY

R. J. RICHARDSON,

It is now vastly improved, and will hereafter be called the BADGER. The Badger possesses all the good qualities of the old drill, and many valuable improvements. The feeling principle of the new drill is the same as the old, but the working arrangement is quite different, and very much improved.

The workman is also much better than the old drill. We will not claim that the Badger is better made than other drills, but will say that it is made by experienced workmen, under my own supervision, and am willing that it should be compared with the best drill made.

The frame is made of summer seasoned white ash, from the forests of Indiana. The poles and rails are made of the same material, and are of the best quality.

The Badger is made from the reliable black iron works of Jones & Harris & Co. The various sizes of wrought iron are from numerous rolling mills of Pittsburgh.

THE POINTS ARE CAST STEEL

from the celebrated Sheffield works of Singer, Nimick & Co. The rollers are from the Ohio State Prison, and are of the best quality.

The Badger is made from the reliable black iron works of Jones & Harris & Co. The various sizes of wrought iron are from numerous rolling mills of Pittsburgh.

To those who know the old drill it is only necessary to say that the Badger is like it only better. To those who do not know the old drill, it is only necessary to say that the Badger is like it only better.

That it is lighter and easier to use for the team than any drill yet introduced into this market.

That it will distribute any kind of grain grown in this region. That it will Plant Corn in Rows or in Hills!

Any distance apart, from three to six feet.

That the Badger is warranted to perform, in a good and workmanlike manner, all that is required of any drill. It is made to last, and does not require to be returned to the manufacturer, and all things will be paid to the purchaser.

In consequence of the large advance in cost of all kinds of material, the Badger must be sold at advanced prices over last year.

Prices of the Badger for 1864:

A COW TEACHING THEOLOGICAL.

The following ingenious story is told by Dr. Todd—the same who said, "There are three classes of people in the world—saints, sinners and the Beecher family." It is found in the Sunday School Times. It originally intended for children, it is eminently fitted for many of a larger growth. There are Bunnells in every parish. Let them see how "a cow teaches theology."

Old Mr. Bunnell was a peculiar man. When a little child, he was peculiar. He didn't want to rock, or creep, or walk like other children. He seemed to prefer to creep sideways or backward, rather than forward. And when a boy, no play suited him, no plan was exactly right. When other boys wanted to skate he wanted to slide. When they wanted to slide down hill, he wanted to run on the ice. When they learned to read in the usual way, he turned his book bottom upwards, and learned to read in that way. Not that he was cross or morose, but peculiar. He wanted everything done his own way. When he became a man, and rode bar-back when other people used the saddle, and milked his cow on the right side instead of the left, and used an ox harnessed with the old horse, why, people said, "Mr. Bunnell is a peculiar man," and let it all pass.

But there were places where he found it hard to travel with other people. Especially was this so on the Sabbath. He never could enjoy the singing in the church, because the chorister always got hold of the wrong tunes; and he could not enjoy the prayers, because they were too long or too short, too abstract or too common. They were always out of joint. If the heathen were prayed for, he thought the heathen at home might as well be remembered. If the nations were mentioned, he thought the Jews ought to be mentioned by name. In all cases, somebody was left out or put into the prayers that ought not to be. He didn't mean to scold, or find fault," he said, but he did "love to have things done right." Poor man, he never had them done right!

But a greater trouble was the preaching. He professed to like the minister, and like him as well as he could like anyone. But there were awful mistakes in his preaching. Sometimes a most important point, as he thought, was left out. Sometimes things were broached, which could be heretical were broached. What could he do? He gave hints and pronounced queries to his minister, and his minister so gently and kindly passed them off, that it seemed like pouring water on a duck's back.

At length, when patience seemed about to give out, and when he could stand it no longer, he went over to his neighbor, Deacon Wright, and poured his troubles into his ear. Now, Deacon Wright was a quiet man, said but little, but thought much. When he did speak, it was always to the point. He knew all about Mr. Bunnell, had great patience with him, and a great regard for him. He used to say, "Mr. Bunnell loves to grow, but he never really bites."

The Deacon was just going to the barn to fodder his cattle, when Mr. Bunnell came up, and bid him, "Good morning—if I can call such a cold morning good."

"Now, Deacon, I've just one word to say. I can't bear our preaching! I go no good. There is so much in it that I grow lean out. I lose my time and pains."

"Mr. Bunnell, come in here! There's my own Thankful; she can teach you theology."

"A cow teach theology? What do you mean?"

"Now see. I have just thrown her a forkful of hay. Just watch her. There now! She has found a stick (you know, sticks will get in the hay); and see how she tosses it one side, and leaves it, and goes out to eat what is good. There again! She has found a burdock, and she throws it one side, and goes on eating. And there! She don't relish that bunch of daisies, and she leaves them, and goes on eating. Before morning she will clear the manger of all, save a few sticks and weeds, and she will give me milk. There's a walk in that hay, and she knows how to get it out, albeit there may be now on them a stick or weed which she leaves. But if she refused to eat, and spent the time in scolding about the fodder, she'd be a world 'grow lean' and my milk would be dried up. Just so with our preaching. Let the old cow teach you. Get all the good you can out of it, and leave the rest. You will find a great deal of nourishment in it."

Mr. Bunnell stood silent a moment, then turned away, saying, "Neighbor, that old cow is no fool, at any rate."

HERETOFOR KNOWN AS

AS MADE BY

is now vastly improved, and will hereafter be called the BADGER. The Badger possesses all the good qualities of the old drill, and many valuable improvements. The feeding principle of the new drill is the same as the old, but the working arrangement is quite different, and the result is a much more perfect drill.

The workmanship is also much better than the old drill. We will not claim that the Badger is better than other drills, but we will say that it is made by experienced workmen, under our own supervision, and an article that it should be compared with the best drill made.

The frames are made of summer seasoned white ash, from the forests of Indiana. The poles and rails are dried at from Johnson County. The hubs and other castings are from the rolling Rock River Iron Works of Johnson County. The various sizes of wheels are from the best material of Pittsburgh.

THE POINTS ARE CAST STEEL,

from the celebrated Sheffield works of Singer, Nimick & Co. The following are the points of the Badger, as cut at Columbus, Ohio. The spokes are of dry white oak, from Northern Wisconsin. The chains are from iron, Frederick, Germany. No mix has been used to obtain the best material—the workmanship will show for itself.

To those who know the old drill it is only necessary to say that the Badger is like it—only better. To those who are not acquainted with the old drill, we would say that the Badger drill is more accurate in its feeding than any other drill introduced.

That it is lighter and easier for the team than any drill yet introduced into the market.

And that the Badger is warranted to perform, in a good and workmanlike manner, all that is required of any drill. If it fails, it does not perform, it can be returned to the manufacturer, and all changes will be made to the purchaser.
